Main Focuses

The Partner School of PPH Augustinum, a progressive education-based school, excels through three different proven main focuses:

1. Montessori Pedagogy since 1985
2. Jenaplan Pedagogy since 2007
3. Inclusive Education since 2010

A central concern of all educational focuses is:

The child is our central focus!

Our common, fundamental pedagogical approach can be summarized by the fact that we enable children to:

- maintain their enthusiasm, curiosity and joy in learning,
- provide spaces for experience into which we invite the children, inspire them and encourage

Mission Statement of the Partner School

The Partner School of PPH Augustinum is an all-day primary school in separate sequences of instruction and afternoon childcare with public status.

We understand school partnership as active coexistence in relation to the design and further development of the partner school.

We put into action the proven, progressive education-based concepts on the basis of current scientific knowledge and develop methods of forward-looking learning processes.

The holistic nature of our work shows in our well-balanced pace of varied learning processes, relaxing free time, as well as our different physical activity-based, artistic and creative offerings.

We encounter people in all their diversity with due respect and accompany them attentively in their personal development.

In a trusting and appreciative atmosphere, we live a versatile “celebratory culture” and convey Christian values.

We consider language and multilingualism as substantial elements on the way to a self-confident, cosmopolitan person.

In the afternoon, free play and specific offerings, such as sports, music and culture with alternating phases of concentrated learning, continue the rhythm of the day.
